Honoring Cindra Shangreau: A Legacy of Leadership, Service, and Love

Late Si-Si-A Pe-Txa Board Chairwoman Cindra Shangreau

With profound sadness and heavy hearts, the Osage Nation Health System (ONHS) mourns the passing of our beloved Si-Si A-Pe-Txa Health Board Chairwoman, Cindra Shangreau (Osage/Lakota).

We grieve not only the loss of an extraordinary leader, but also a cherished colleague, mentor, advocate, and friend whose unwavering dedication to her people helped shape the future of healthcare for the Osage Nation.

Appointed to the Health Authority Board by Principal Chief Geoffrey Standing Bear on December 19, 2019, Cindra brought decades of healthcare experience, wisdom, and a deep commitment to improving others' lives. A retired clinical pharmacy specialist, she dedicated more than 20 years of her career to serving veterans through the Veterans Affairs healthcare system, in addition to her earlier service in Tulsa and at Pawnee Indian Health Service.

Her passion for serving her people was deeply rooted in her family. Her father, Edward L. "Sonny" Shangreau, was among the first Community Health Representatives for the Osage Nation and instilled in her a lifelong commitment to improving healthcare for the Osage people.

Cindra once shared: "I am humbled to be following the footsteps of those who went before to better the healthcare of the Osage people."

Those words beautifully reflect the humility, purpose, and devotion with which she led.

"Sovereignty in action" are words Cindra used with great pride when reflecting on the tremendous growth and progress of the Osage Nation Health System. From the opening of the new Wahzhazhe Health Center and the Osage Nation Counseling Center to the many projects and expanded services still on the horizon, she understood that these accomplishments represented something far greater than buildings or programs.

They represented the Osage Nation's ability to determine its own future, care for its own people, and build a lasting foundation of health and wellness for generations to come.

Cindra did not simply witness this progress. She helped make it possible.

Through her leadership, advocacy, and steadfast belief in our health system's mission, she played an instrumental role in guiding an era of remarkable growth. Her vision was never limited to what could be accomplished today, but extended to what could be built for the generations who would follow.

While our hearts are broken that she will not be here to see every project through to completion, we find comfort in knowing that her influence will be present in each new door that opens, every service that expands, and every life touched by the care she worked so tirelessly to advance.

Her legacy is woven into the very foundation of our health system.

To Cindra's family, loved ones, fellow board members, and all who had the privilege of knowing her, we extend our deepest condolences. We share in your grief and hope you find comfort in knowing how deeply she was respected, appreciated, and loved.

Cindra, thank you for your leadership, your wisdom, your tireless dedication, and, most importantly, your love for your people.

You gave so much of yourself to ensure a healthier future for the Osage Nation. We will honor your memory by continuing the work you believed in so deeply, carrying forward your vision with the same determination, compassion, and commitment you demonstrated throughout your life.

Your work will continue. Your impact will endure. And your legacy will never be forgotten.

We love you, Cindra. You will be deeply missed. ❤️

Osage Nation Health System Supports Schools & First Responders for Red Ribbon Week 2026

By Prevention Department

In recognition of Red Ribbon Week, celebrated nationally from October 23–31, 2026, the Osage Nation Health System Prevention Department is proud to have supported every school district in Osage County with resources that promote healthy, drug-free lifestyles. This year, Prevention also hosted an updated naloxone administration training for first responders throughout the county. Red Ribbon Week was started as a remembrance of a DEA agent who fell in the line of duty to drug traffickers.

Prevention provided Red Ribbon Week supplies to all schools across the county, including red ribbons, posters, activity guides, and educational materials to help students take the pledge to live drug-free. The Prevention team encourages schools to use these materials to spark conversations about positive choices, resilience, and wellness.

In addition to Red Ribbon materials, the Prevention Department also distributed Overdose Prevention Kits to first responders. These kits, which include naloxone (Narcan) and educational resources, are part of a broader effort to strengthen community safety and awareness around overdose prevention. The kits are provided as personal preparedness tools, giving people knowledge and life-saving resources that can make a difference in an emergency. Along with the kits, Prevention provided updated training on naloxone administration and stigma reduction developed in partnership with the State of Oklahoma.

These initiatives reflect the goals of the Osage Nation Health System Prevention Department: empowering youth and families, strengthening community capacity, and expanding behavioral health supports through culturally grounded, evidence-based strategies.

The Prevention Department thanks local educators and school leaders for partnering to make Red Ribbon Week a success. Together, we're building a safer, healthier future for Osage County youth.

Celebrating National Information and Referral Day: The Power of Connecting People to Care

By Purchase Referred Care Department

Every year, National Information and Referral Day recognizes the dedicated professionals who serve as a bridge between individuals, families, and the vital resources they need. This special day highlights the important role information and referral specialists play in helping people navigate complex healthcare systems, community services, and support programs.

At the heart of information and referral services is a simple but powerful mission: connecting people to the right resources at the right time. Whether assisting someone with healthcare coverage, locating community support services, finding financial assistance programs, or helping members understand their benefits, referral specialists make a meaningful difference in the lives of those they serve.

Information and referral professionals are often the first point of contact for individuals seeking guidance during challenging times. Their knowledge, compassion, and commitment help remove barriers to care, ensuring people receive accurate information and timely support. Through active listening, problem-solving, and collaboration, they empower individuals to make informed decisions and access the services they need.

National Information and Referral Day also reminds us of the importance of teamwork. Effective referrals require strong partnerships among healthcare providers, community organizations, care coordinators, and customer service professionals. Together, these efforts create a support network that improves outcomes and strengthens communities.

Today, November 15th, we celebrate the dedication, expertise, and compassion of referral specialists everywhere. Your work goes beyond connecting calls and processing requests. You provide hope, guidance, and solutions that improve lives every day.

Thank you for your commitment to service, your passion for helping others, and the positive impact you make in the communities you serve. Happy National Information and Referral Day!

TYPE 1 DIABETES AND TYPE 2 DIABETES ARE TWO DIFFERENT DISEASE.

They are not stages of the same disease, and one does not progress into the other.

TYPES OF DIABETES

TYPE 1 DIABETES
The body does not produce insulin.

TYPE 2 DIABETES
The body becomes resistant to insulin or does not produce enough insulin.

THE DIFFERENCE

If there is uncertainty about a diabetes diagnosis, ask your healthcare provider about Autoantibody testing and C-peptide testing.

AUTOANTIBODY TESTING

There are five commonly recognized Type 1 diabetes-related autoantibodies that can be tested. A postive result supports an autoimmune Type 1 diagnosis.

C-PEPTIDE TESTING

Measures how much insulin your body is producing. Levels are often low in Type 1 and normal or elevated in Type 2, although there are exceptions.

PREVENTION & MANAGEMENT

TYPE 1 DIABETES

- An autoimmune disease
- The immune system mistakenly attacks and destroys the insulin-producing beta cells in the pancreas.
- The body eventually produces little to no insulin.
- No cure currently exists.
- People with Type 1 require insulin to survive.

TYPE 2 DIABETES

- A metabolic disease.
- The body develops insulin resistance, meaning it cannot use insulin effectively.
- Over time, the pancreas may also lose its ability to produce enough insulin to meet the body's needs.
- It is NOT caused by an autoimmune attack on the insulin-producing cells.
- Diet and lifestyle changes can help manage the disease.
- Medication may also be needed, and some people eventually require insulin.

October Osage Nation Health System Town Hall Meeting

The Osage Nation Health System (ONHS) October Town Hall brought employees together for a day of professional development, recognition, and a little Halloween fun!

ONHS employees embraced the Halloween spirit, showing off their costumes, sharing plenty of laughs, and connecting with colleagues. It was a wonderful reminder that building a positive workplace culture includes making time for fun and camaraderie!

A highlight of the Town Hall was a special presentation by Dr. Daryl Tonemah, organized by the ONHS Prevention Program.

Dr. Tonemah presented "When the Floor Falls Away: Supporting Native Youth, Families, & Caregivers Through Depression, Suicidality, and Recovery."

The presentation addressed important mental health challenges facing Native youth and families, emphasizing the importance of understanding, compassion, and community support. We appreciate Dr. Tonemah for sharing his knowledge and the ONHS Prevention Program for coordinating this valuable learning opportunity.
